

Vision of a Sunken City, Rediscovered 6-11-26@8:09 PM Shared 6-15-26

I see an underwater city. There is a scuba diver near it. I see they have discovered the city ruins and are near what looks like a window with lattice work of criss crossed bars of a metal alloy of some type. It's not something I would expect to see here in this type of ruins. The water is murky and not clear. I see the scuba diver is wearing one of the large metal type helmets that I've seen used in the past. There are small fish present. Schools of fish and sand but I don't see any coral reefs or anything like that which I recognize from having seen pictures of the underwater.

“A discovery is about to be made to shock the world once it's rediscovered. Within this sunken city is a resource long forgotten to man.....coal. But used in engineering within the sunken walls of generating powerful electricity with the aid of the precious gemstones and technology. Daughter this is one of the slave house windows where the fallen ones kept slaves of all kinds. Though not Atlantis with its 3 grand pyramids, it shall be rediscovered in... but a few moments of time. Equipment, gears, engine parts of simplicity...yes Daughter. This is so you will know it's almost time for Atlantis to rise as well.”

I hear the name, “Croatia.” “Thank You my lovely Jesus Christ for revealing this to me.” “You are welcome, My daughter.”
