

Babylon is Fallen 6-1-26@6:23 AM

"Babylon is fallen, is fallen," the watchmen shall cry this night of days.

"Watchmen, were you watching? Watchmen, were you waiting? Watchmen, are you crying out the warning?"

I said, "This day, this night of days, Babylon will have fallen as a power before the time fully expires!"

Babylon has fallen. Her power removed and stripped, her false gods broken and smashed. Judgment time has come.

Watchmen, watchwomen, in My Kingdom you are one and the same. Prepare the people, announce the call, cry aloud. "Fallen, fallen, Babylon is fallen, has fallen." This is the cry that shall echo in the world as the merchants, the traders, the co-conspirators, cry aloud when they see Babylon's greatest city fall. The city of harlotry and idolatry.

Babylon, that great city has fallen and Babylon shall be a superpower no more. All will watch from afar from the shorelines, the satellites, the boats and the ships, but no one will come to her shores to aid her, because of the plague she has been smitten with. The plague of burning fire that comes from the use of these man-made weapons of war, the nuclear ones.

Who will want to buy your items for sale, or trade for your gold, silver or human slaves, both young and old, when those things not consumed by the plague of nuclear fire shall become contaminated by the radiation, including the people from these areas affected?

Babylon has fallen, has fallen. Weep and lament, her time has come. Let the announcement ring forth from sea to sea, from land to land. Fallen, Babylon the great harlot has fallen.

America, you are Babylon, the land on many waters and your New York Manhattan is the great city of Babylon itself. Let the watchmen cry aloud, for within this night of days, My words spoken and written shall be fulfilled. For I, the God of Heaven, of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, I the Lord of Host, the I AM THAT I AM, have declared it would be so, before the foundation stones of time were created and set into the firmament, the heavenly skies.

This Daughter, watchman-woman of Mine is the cry that shall go out and be heard this night of days, and before this noon-midday has fallen of this day you live in, this warning shall go out.

Watchmen, watchmen announce the call. Cry aloud, "Babylon, Babylon city of harlotry has fallen!"

Watchmen, watchmen, cry out loud, "Babylon, Babylon, the land has fallen."

The eagle has fallen, her wings have been clipped, and no more shall she soar in the heights of the heaven above all other nations. I strip her of this position above all others in this foretold, night of days.

Cry allowed Daughter, "Babylon, fallen, fallen is Babylon!"
