

The Melting Exploding Earth Dream 9-29-26@3:11 AM Shared 10-1-26

I awoke suddenly from a dream that left me both stunned and in awe, in great wonderment for my God and Lord. As I woke up, I heard the Bible CD playing these words. "I am the First and the Last. I make all things new." I knew this was found in Revelation 21:5-6. Then I heard my lovely Jesus Christ say out loud, "Daughter, I started it and I'm going to finish it." This is how the dream had just ended also with Him declaring these words in a voice of authority. Holy Ghost Spirit, please bring this dream fully back to my memory. Although right now as I write, it is still very vivid. "Wow, Lord Jesus Christ, what a dream!"

The dream also began with my lovely Jesus Christ saying, "Behold, Daughter, I make all things new. I started it and I'm going to finish it!" Suddenly I'm looking at the Earth in the blackness of space which is the upper heavens of the firmament. It was as the Earth really is but without the eight columns or pillars showing made out of the waters of the deep that supports it. I'm seeing it from the side view. The Earth and the heavens are enclosed in a round clear base that's called the firmament with the top half part, we call the atmosphere part being named by God as the heavens, but also the firmament. I remember when I had the first dreams about the firmament in February of 2024 which were the Black Magnetic Rock Dream and The Earth As it Really is Dream, that the word firmament originates from the Latin word 'firmus' also meaning firm. It actually means: basis or bases; a physical base or foundation on vocabulary.com. In the Century Dictionary the word firmament means: foundation, support, basis. These are all the archaic original meanings of this word which explained what I was seeing in these dreams. Also, what I'm seeing right now. From the sideview, the landmass sits upon what looks like a half circle with the top areas showing signs of structures on it. Beneath this area I saw the ice wall, the part that goes around the firmament's edge and keeps the land separated from the waters of the deep that Earth was formed from, the seas in part, hell, and the abyss below it. The pillars I had seen before in other dreams and visions as I said prior were not present at first. In my understanding, these are what I know are called the foundation of the Earth. They are unmovable within their own selves.

As I'm staring at it in wonderment, it is an amazing sight to behold, suddenly it explodes right before my eyes. Pieces of it I can see flying in every direction. I let out a gasp of surprise and cried out, "Wait! What! What just happened?" I heard my lovely Jesus Christ speak in a powerful audible voice and I recognize it's His voice because I know it well, "I make all things new, all things new." I watched in amazement as suddenly all the pieces of the shattered Earth, of the firmament, began reversing and returning into their former place once again. This time it was sitting on its eight columns, the pillars but I didn't see hell or the abyss beneath. "What? What? I stuttered, still partly stunned by seeing the whole Earth explode right before my eyes and then reform. Finally I said, "The firmament, the pillars, the pillars Lord?" In a questioning voice but never fully asking any questions. I heard my lovely Jesus Christ's quick reply, "I have shown you the Earth without its pillars, so you can see what happens to the whole earth, the firmament and not only part of it. Daughter, I say again, I started it and I will finish it from beginning to the end. Watch and behold how it shall occur when I create a new Earth. What Father God has already spoken shall be spoken again when the appointed time comes. I shall recreate it new. It shall be a new Earth and a new Heaven. A firmament but now purged by fire of all sin remnants. When something is purged by fire, the fire separates the impurities of that which is good. Sin is the impurities so all traces of it will be purged by melting, hot fire and the purified pieces that remain I shall recreate the Earth with." "But, but, it exploded Lord Jesus Christ," I cried out. "How? Why?"

All of the sudden, I felt a hand take hold of mine. I turned to my right to see it was my lovely Jesus Christ, but I knew before I turned it was Him by the power of holiness that coursed through my hand, arm, and body. I threw my arms around Him so very thankful to be in His holy presence once again. I felt His holy arms go around me and healing flowed into me that only His presence and that of Father God can bring. "I love You my Lord," I said in great joy. "I love you too, Daughter of Mine," He replied. I clung tightly to him but after a few minutes I finally released my bear type hug from around Him. I looked up at His face. His eyes are like burning hot flames of fire. His hair, mostly straight with some slight wave or body to it so that it wasn't totally flat on His head, was brilliant white, pure white, snow white and as always seemed to have a slight wind blowing around Him. Finally I realized this was the Holy Spirit's presence and although He was glorified, He was still part of Him somehow. He smiled at me then said, "Let Me show you what I mean, beloved Daughter. For when I created you, I made you where when seeing something, it does not leave your memory if it's needed at some time for you to do all I've called you to do." "Okay," I replied eager to see it with His understanding given to me.

Suddenly before us, I saw once again the firmament with the heavens, the earth, hell, the abyss, and waters of the deep all enclosed inside it with the pillars holding the Earth, the firmament. In past visions and dreams I have seen my lovely Jesus Christ's hand holding the world, the pillars and waters in His hands. Other times the same but in holy judgment He would shake the whole thing. "It's beautiful," I said quickly, then asked, "what's that blueish green tint of color that's reflecting off the top of the firmament?" "I've never seen that before," I said quickly. "Daughter," He replied, "that's because your spiritual eyes were not open before. That is the distant reflection of Father God's throne. Now watch!" I did as He said without hesitation and saw what looked like liquid fire, very hot I could tell, being dropped onto the top part of the firmament, the world's heavens. Within moments it was like, for lack of better words, melting a hole into the outer firmament. "This is what My Word speaks about in Isaiah chapter 34, in Isaiah 51:6 and several verses found in 2 Peter chapter 3 and other places where it speaks of the heavens melting and dissolving," He said quickly. Now there's what looks like fire coming out from places on the top part of the Earth where mankind would live. "Where are all the people? Where are Your children? When is this?" I asked Him quickly.

He looked at me oh so patiently began to answer my questions but again bringing in the written Word. "This is the same fire but not in its full strength that once satan is loosed at the end of the Millennium Reign it will be used upon him and all the forces of the earth he has gathered against My Kingdom. The prophet Isaiah spoke of this also in Isaiah 34 verses 1 through 3. "Wait!" I said quickly. "You're giving me actual verses in the Holy Bible, Lord." "Yes, Daughter I am, like before. So after you discern this dream, for that's where you are, in a dream of future times and events, you can go right to My Word. Then should you choose, you can study it further as I have taught you to do. These verses are in direct relation to the time of satan's being loosed in Revelation 21. I'm also referring to the KJV Daughter, simply because since growing up and reading My Word this was the translation you're more familiar with in its wording." "Thank you," I replied quickly. "You're welcome," He said with a warm smile that I returned readily. As we were watching the firmament beginning to melt, I realized it was burning everything in its path. The Stars started falling. It was melting quickly into nothing. I heard my lovely Jesus Christ speak again. "This actually happens Daughter after satan is dealt with and those remaining with evil sin filled hearts as the Day of Judgment occurs for all. The fallen ones and all those found with unrepented sins will be cast into the Lake of Fire prison that is in the largest blackest area outside of the firmament. A hole of blackness, of the darkness that once shut, shall never be opened. I will bring all who are Mine to our Heaven until the new Earth and Heaven are created. "Whoa," I replied in surprise. "Wow, Lord," I said to my lovely Jesus Christ, "You do know everything in advance."

He smiled at me again as He said, "My Father, My people, My Holy Angels, all of Heaven shall not live on a cursed, defiled Earth but a purified one. A newly recreated one that's made out of the purified pieces of the old. I make all things new, Daughter, all things new," He said quickly. I watched what looked like land, trees and such like, as they were all burning and melting on the earth in front of us. I saw smoke, lots of smoke but also what looked like an abundance of steam from all the water found inside the firmament's remaining enclosure. We were quiet for a moment and then I began going over verses in the Word of God concerning creation and all that was occurring. "Lord, Your Word says in many places that the Earth shall abide forever such as in Ecclesiastes 1:4, Psalms 78:69 and Psalms 119: 90 to name a few. Yet it also speaks of the Earth being destroyed and being melted by fervent heat such as in 2 Peter 3:7-12. You, Yourself said in Matthew that Heaven and Earth shall pass away but Your Word would not. But once again we read in Psalms 37:11 and 29 the Word says the righteous and meek shall inherit the land, the earth. To me this is referring to the new Earth coming because we're already living on the old Earth," I said thoughtfully. "Let's not forget Psalms 115:16 tell us the Earth was given to men. So it speaks about the Earth remaining forever and being destroyed." I thought for a moment then continued. "Although these verses appear to contradict each other, when you pull them all together and get the full picture and understanding, they really don't, so would You please clarify all this for Me so I know if I'm understanding it correctly?" I asked Him quickly.

"Yes Daughter, I will," He replied. "The Earth shall remain forever as it will be recreated from that which was old. It will be created new and shall last forever. But the old Earth, its former self, must be cleansed and purged because it bore in it the curse of sin. The curse of shed blood. It is defiled. It's like when My children are changed out of their sin nature bodies into one like Mine, they're created new so they can live forever. So shall the Earth be recreated to last forever the old Earth, the firmament, dies and is reborn because I make all things new. Both the former Earth and new are created to be inhabited." Suddenly the melting fire became more intense and fire was flaming up everywhere. Somehow it sounded like pressure was building up. "What's happening?" I shouted. When once again the Earth exploded right before my eyes with pieces going in every direction. I was stunned and in shock even though I just witnessed it a short time earlier. "Daughter, Daughter, pressure has built up in many forms including steam from the waters that caused the exploding combustion. I shall melt the Earth by fervent heat and when each piece is thoroughly purged and cleansed from all effects of sin, I shall recreate it again. This one shall be the home place for all of Heaven to reside together in New Jerusalem. Sin and its darkness shall be forever removed into the Lake of Fire, never never to be released or appear again in the new firmament, in Heaven, in anywhere in existence," my Lord Jesus Christ said passionately.

I looked back to where the Earth had once been and saw the pillars were still standing unaffected. "Only God could do that," I thought to myself. I saw a small smile appear on my lovely Jesus Christ's face and I knew He had understood my thoughts. I didn't care. I keep no secrets from Him and couldn't even if I tried. He's God! After a few minutes of silence, I asked, "Um, Jesus, my Love, are you going to leave a new earth and new heaven uncreated? The firmament?" I heard Him laugh softly as He looked like, "No, Daughter, I'm waiting on Father's command to be spoken." Suddenly, I heard from somewhere above us the voice I recognized as my beloved Father God. "Let the new heavens and new earth, the firmament come forth Son." All at once, I began to see the pieces, the many pieces coming back together as if being pulled into one place by something magnetic. I watched in amazement as water, land, the sky reappeared, but I did not see hell beneath or the abyss either. I then heard my lovely Jesus Christ in a powerful firm voice of authority say, "What I have started Daughter, I shall finish. I am the Beginning and the End of all created things. I started it and I shall finish it. Father spoke and I created and it was done. Father will speak again when this time comes in the Earth's timeline and that which has been foretold and written about the new Earth and the new Heaven shall be accomplished."

"I shall recreate it from the clean and purged pieces of the old into the new. Like the master Potter who takes and reshapes the clay into something useful, so do I by My Father's command. This Daughter, this is what I meant by, I started it and I'm going to finish it." After He spoke these last words, I woke from this dream to only hear Him audibly speak them out loud to me once again while I'm awake as I have mentioned when I first started writing out this dream.
