A Swiss church has introduced an AI-powered version of Jesus Christ as part of an art project called Deus in Machina. This digital Jesus offers spiritual guidance and listens to confessions, using the New Testament to shape its responses. While the innovative concept has sparked intrigue, it also raises questions about the role of AI in spirituality and whether technology can truly replace human spiritual guidance.

Would you trust an "AI Jesus" with your innermost thoughts and troubles? Researchers and religious leaders on Wednesday released findings from a two-month experiment through an art installation in a Roman Catholic chapel in Lucerne in which an avatar of "Jesus" on a computer screen, tucked into a confessional, took questions by visitors on faith, morality and modern-day woes, and responded based on Scripture.
